The award-winning Andronis Suites Hotel clings to the side of a steep cliff, high above Santorini's spectacular caldera, which are the remains of a devastating volcanic eruption 3,600 years ago. Its Lycabettus restaurant, named after a hill in Athens, has a terrace located on dramatic rocky outcrop juts right out over the water, in what must be one of the most romantic restaurant settings in the world. Traditional Mediterranean recipes are blended with organic ingredients and elements of nouvelle cuisine to create a superlative menu.
